Jensen, editor in chief of Security Today magazine. “We have gathered the most interesting stories from IT security experts and have been able to share them with our readers. We also have seen an explosion of new and much-needed technology. Because we appreciate showing new products that will make a difference, we felt a product contest was in order. We were right. Some of the most amazing technologies have been part of this effort to brag about cybersecurity platforms, and we’re proud to be part of that.”
